

Join an international project team for summer 2023!

TECHNOLOGY IN A SMART SOCIETY

Funded by the European Union

For quite some time now, sensors, software, and other technologies have been paving their ways into our societies, be it in the area of transportation, security, health, or communication – and hence also pose potential solutions to some societal challenges of our future. Together with students from Austria, Finland, and the Netherlands, join us in international project teams to develop solutions for applications in everyday life! Sectors range from (but are not limited to) agriculture, infrastructure monitoring, transport, healthcare, workplace, robotics etc. for society use.

What did you like most about the project week in Vienna? The time you could spend with people from a completely different culture and work with them.
